The State Counsellor

Book #6 in the Erast Fandorin Mysteries

by Boris Akunin

U.K. Hardcover • $31.95

“ALL THE USUAL AKUNIN FINGERPRINTS ARE HERE—WONDERFUL PERIOD SETTINGS, DELIRIOUS PLOTTING AND THAT WRY, UNDERSTATED SENSE OF HUMOUR.”

—The Good Book Guide

The newly appointed governor-general of Siberia is murdered in his official railway carriage by a killer disguised as Fandorin. The detective is first arrested for the crime, but quickly released and asked to investigate. To solve the crime, Fandorin must also solve the mystery of the mole who is leaking information from the case with deadly precision. Fandorin's determination to catch the betrayer places his own lover, the fiery Esfir, under suspicion.

“Lively characters and a sinuous plot amply explain why Akunin's Fandorin thrillers have sold in their millions.”

—Financial Times (London)

The Shardlake Mysteries

by C. J. Sansom

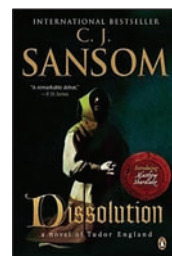

“Impossible to put down . . . the best kind of historical novel: a story that never falters, with interesting and compelling characters, and written with a masterful command of the period.”

—Historical Novels Review

Museum of Human Beings

by Colin Sargent

U.S. Hardcover • $23.95

A Shoshone woman, Sacagawea, leads Lewis and Clark to the Pacific at the turn of the nineteenth century. On her back is a tiny infant. He is her son, Jean-Baptiste Charbonneau, the youngest member of the Expedition, who is raised by Clark as a foster son.

As a teenager, Baptiste is taken to Europe by the Prince of Württemberg and exhibited as a “half gentleman–half animal.” Later, Baptiste turns his back on the Old World and returns to the New. He travels deep into the heart of the American wilderness, and into the depths of his mother’s soul, on an epic quest for identity that brings sacrifice, loss, and the distant promise of redemption.

“A stylish look at the fate of Sacagawea’s baby son . . . Increasingly haunted by his mother, Baptiste revisits her in memories and visions that lend themselves nicely to Sargent’s lyrical prose.”

A Matter of Honor

by William C. Hammond

U.S. Trade Paperback • $18.95

“Drawing on five years of historical research and a lifetime of sailing, Hammond vividly recreates an early chapter in American history.”
—Publishers Weekly

1777: Richard Cutler, a Massachusetts teenager, ships out with John Paul Jones. Cutler is bent on avenging the death of his brother Will, who was impressed by the Royal Navy and flogged to death. On the high seas, in England, France and the Caribbean, and on the battlefield of Yorktown, Cutler proves his mettle and wins the love—and allegiance to the infant Republic—of a beautiful English aristocrat.

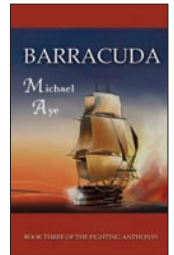

Barracuda

Book #3 of the Fighting Anthonys

by Michael Aye

U.S. Trade Paperback • $16.95

Signed by the Author (while supplies last)

1777: The ghost ship Barracuda plies the waters off the coast of Saint Augustine, taking no prizes and leaving no survivors. To protect Florida loyalists, Admiral Lord Gilbert Anthony and his brother Gabriel must track down those behind the terrible slaughters.

“Aye’s personal sea-going experience shines through in his believable portrayal of shipboard life . . . a welcome addition to the genre of maritime fiction.”

—James Nelson, author of the Brethren of the Coast Trilogy

The Revolution Series

by Simon Scarrow

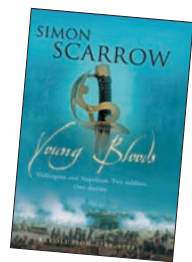

“The characters are real, so too the battles . . . brought vividly to life with the thriller writer’s skill.”

—Nottingham Evening Post

1. Young Bloods

U.K. Trade Paperback • $19.95

Patrician Arthur Wesley (aka Wellesley) is born and bred to be a leader. Upstart Napoleon Bonaparte only joins the French military on the eve of revolt. As the French Revolution unfolds, both men find ample opportunity to prove their mettle in battle as they embark on meteoric military careers destined to set them on a collision course.

“Well written, researched and a pleasure to read. Recommended.”

—Historical Novels Review

2. The Generals

U.K. Trade Paperback • $19.95

After the French Revolution, Napoleon Bonaparte is accused of treachery and corruption but redeems himself with brilliant victories in Italy and Egypt. Meanwhile, Arthur Wesley, the future Duke of Wellington, leads armies against powerful warlords in India and returns to England a hardened veteran determined to end France’s domination of Europe.
